Trust to Nature.

A great many Americans, both men and women, are thin, pale and puny, with poor circulation, because they have ill-treated their stomachs by hasty eating or too much eating, by consuming alcoholic beverages, or by too close confinement to home, office or factory, and in consequence the stomach must be treated in a natural way before they can rectify their earlier mistakes. The muscles of many such people, in fact in every weary, thin and thin-blooded person, do their work with great difficulty. As a result fatigue comes early, is extreme and lasts long. The demand for nutritive aid is ahead of the supply. To insure perfect health every tissue, bone, nerve and muscle should take from the blood certain materials and return to it certain others. It is necessary to prepare the stomach for the work of taking up from the food what is necessary to make good, rich, red blood. We must go to Nature for the remedy. There were certain roots known to the Indians of this country before the advent of the whites which later came to the knowledge of the settlers and which are now growing rapidly in professional favor for the cure of obstinate stomach and liver troubles. These are found in the clean and yet certain in their cleansing and invigorating effect upon the stomach, liver and blood. These are: Golden Seal root, Queen's root, Stone root, Bloodroot, Mandrake root. Then there is Black Cherrybark. The medicinal principles residing in these native roots when extracted with glycerine as a solvent make the most reliable and efficient stomach tonic and liver invigorator, when combined in just the right proportions, as in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Where there is bankrupt vitality such as nervous exhaustion, bad nutrition—and thin blood, the body acquires vigor and the nerves, blood and all the tissues feel the favorable effect of this sovereign remedy. Although some physicians have been aware of the high medicinal value of the above mentioned plants, yet few have used pure glycerine as a solvent and usually the doctors' prescriptions called for the ingredients in varying amounts, with alcohol.

IT IS FOR LADIES, TOO.

They Can Stop Their Hair Falling Out With Herpelide.

Ladies who have thin hair and whose hair is falling out, can prevent the hair falling out, and thicken the growth, with Newbro's "Herpelide." Besides, Herpelide is one of the most agreeable hair dressings there is. Herpelide kills the dandruff germ that eats the hair out of the root. After the germ is destroyed, the root will shoot up, and the hair grow long as ever. Even a sample will convince any lady that Newbro's Herpelide is an indispensable toilet requisite. It contains no oil or grease, it will not stain or dye, hold by leading druggists. Send for sample to The Herpelide Co., Detroit, Mich.

THE VATICAN PALACE.

It has long been known that some parts of the Vatican in Rome are unsafe; but it has just been discovered that the palace is practically falling to pieces. Even the corner where the Pope's apartment is situated needs strengthening, and the pontiff is moving out. The walls, which are cracked, bulging and leaning outward, will be temporarily strengthened immediately. To make the whole building safe will require more than $100,000.

For about 400 years the Vatican Palace has been the official residence of the popes. It is situated on the Mons Vaticanus, one of the seven hills of Rome, in the northwestern part of the city. Previously the official residence was the Lateran Palace. This was found in such a bad condition by Pope Gregory XI. (1370-78) that he moved his place of abode to the Vatican.

The papal palace adjoins the basilica of St. Peter and is a little less than half a mile from the castle of Sant' Angelo, with which it communicates by a covered gallery built by Pope John XXIII. early in the fifteenth century.

The palace, one of the most magnificent in the world, has grown up by degrees, and consequently exhibits a great variety of architectural harmonies. There was a palace attached to St. Peter's certainly in the time of Charlemagne, and probably before the reign of Constantine. It was rebuilt by Innocent III. (1198-1216) and enlarged by Nicholas III. (1277-81), but did not become the permanent residence of the popes until 1307. Little of the present edifice is older than the time of Nicholas V. (1447).

The renovation of the old place, which he commenced, was completed by Alexander V. (1492-1503), after whom that part of the building is now called the Appartamento Borgia.

The famous Sistine Chapel was added by Sixtus IV. in 1474, and the Pauline Chapel by Paul III. in 1534. Innocent VIII. (1484-92) constructed the Belvedere Villa a short distance from the palace, and Julius II. (1503-13) connected it with the Vatican by means of the celebrated loggia and a terraced court. To Julius II. is also due the foundation of the museum. Pius VII. constructed the braccio nuovo for sculptures; Gregory XVI. added the Etruscan Museum, and Pius IX. added a fourth side to the cortile di San Damaso.

The portion of the Vatican which is now the ordinary residence of the popes lies on the east of the loggia and was built chiefly by Sixtus V. (1585-90) and Clement VIII. (1592-1605). The whole palace, which is rather a collection of separate buildings than one regular edifice, occupies a space of 1,151,767 feet, and has 200 stair cases, 20 courts and 4,322 rooms.

The scale, again, or great staircase, is a masterpiece of Bernini, and chiefly remarkable for its perspective. It leads to the Sala Regia, built by Antonio di Sangallo as an audience hall for the reception of ambassadors, and decorated with frescoes by Vasari, Marco da Siena, Taddeo and Federico Zuccheri, Giuseppe Porta and others.

On November 1, 1903, a fire occurred in that part of the Vatican containing the Hall of Inscriptions, where the Pope gives his audiences, and which adjoins the gallery of pictures. While the damage was considerable, no lives were lost.

Duel in Paris.

The scene of tumultuous disorder which marked the enactment yesterday, in Paris, of the law restoring Alfred Dreyfus to the army was followed by a bloody duel last night, in which Under Secretary of State Sarraut was seriously wounded by the sword of M. Pugliesi-Conti.

The duel assumed the aspect of a veritable combat between the government and the opposition, as M. Sarraut's seconds were Ministers Clemenceau and Thompson, while M. Pugliesi-Conti's were M. Milleroye and Gen. Jaquet, who were drawn from the elements which bitterly resist the government's rehabilitation of Dreyfus.

The meeting followed a fight on the floor of the Chamber of Deputies, in which M. Sarraut sprang from beside Minister of the Interior Clemenceau, sitting on the ministerial benches on M. Pugliesi-Conti, who had been heaping denunciations on the members of the government as scoundrels. Sarraut struck Pugliesi-Conti a stunning blow in the face. A scene of the wildest uproar ensued, compelling the suspension of the session.

It was after the close of the session that the duel occurred. Late reports show that M. Sarraut is suffering from a deep wound in the right breast, penetrating the lung. While the wound is considered to be serious it is not necessarily fatal.
